

Dr. [REDACTED],

Here is a summary of the discussion points from our conversation Friday:

Pfizer Animal Health provides sponsorship to the Hunte breeders conference as it does at many educational venues for veterinarians, students, farmers, producers, technicians, pet owners, shelters and others in the animal healthcare business. This sponsorship is consistent with our Pfizer's approach to medically educating many of the stakeholders involved with the diverse aspects animal health.

Pfizer Animal Health supports and encourages strict adherence to all state and federal laws regulating pet breeders, including effective USDA enforcement of the Animal Welfare Act. Our primary interest is the health and welfare of all puppies including those that come through dog breeders. This is consistent with Pfizer Animal Health's mission of helping pets live longer, healthier lives.

Pfizer's involvement and sponsorship in this conference is solely educational - we educate pet breeders on infectious disease trends and educate on infection control planning. Our sponsorship provides for speakers on medical education only. We do not sell any products at this conference.

I would like to make one slight amendment, please direct inquiries or calls regarding this matter to our Veterinary Medical Investigations and Product Support Group at 1-800-366-5288 - rather than to Rick Goulart directly.

Sincerely,

Nick Athanasiou DVM, MBA, CVPM
US Biologicals Marketing - Companion Animal Division